Ad Hoc Reviewers 2016

I want to express my gratitude to all reviewers who helped us during the last 12 months. Us, that is the consulting editors, the associate editors, and me. We all are convinced that the quality of a journal relies heavily on the quality of the reviewers. It is not uncommon for a good paper to become an excellent paper as a result of thoughtful recommendations provided by expert reviewers. Therefore, thank you to all reviewers (please see below list)! Of course, I also want to thank the action editors who have escorted me!

At this point I also want to extend an appeal to readers of our journal. Knowing the importance of reviewers, it grieves me to see that it is becoming increasingly difficult to find experts who are willing to review papers. The reasons for this are obvious. The number of outlets and the number of publications are increasing from year to year and so colleagues who are willing to review find themselves confronted by numerous requests. It is a matter of self-protection to start declining such requests sooner or later. Nevertheless, a good journal needs good reviewers. So I would like to ask all reviewers who are approached by us to consider our request carefully. After all, it is your chance to influence our research field. If time does not allow you to do a review, I would equally hope that you may be able to recommend potential alternative.
